Summer 2023 Course Descriptions

B639 Advanced Legal Research ^^ (2) – Ahlbrand, A.
The 2-credit Advanced Legal Research survey course offers students an opportunity to gain in-depth knowledge of legal research methods and resources. The course reviews the complete range of federal and state primary sources, legislative history, administrative materials, all major secondary sources and practice aids, as well as practical research strategies. Upon completion of this course students will be able to evaluate research options and identify the best strategy for tackling the variety of research scenarios they might encounter in practice.

Course Content and Organization: This 8-week online course is divided into topical modules, structured to reflect the research process. Each module focuses on a specific category of resources or steps in the research process (e.g. case law and the organization of the courts, conducting administrative law research, etc.), and includes selected readings, recorded online lectures with research demonstrations, and other appropriate resources. Additionally, each module contains research quizzes to both measure and enhance the student’s understanding of the instructional materials and their expertise with using the resources.

Throughout the course, students will work on an ongoing written research problem that will develop as the course progresses. This takes the place of a capstone final written research problem, and allows students to see how a structured research plan can help your research unfold in a logical manner.

Each student’s course grade will be based on a weighted combination of (1) module quizzes; (2) completion of the ongoing written research problem; (3) final course reflection assignment; and (5) online class participation through discussion boards.

Class Format and Expectations: To accommodate students’ varying work schedules and locations, this course will be taught asynchronously, meaning there will be no set online class sessions. Rather, class participation will be measured through active participation in the discussion boards, timeliness with which assignments are submitted, and overall interaction and engagement with course materials.

Students are responsible for ascertaining applicable rules of relevant jurisdictions for bar exams/admission. Some jurisdictions limit the number of online hours of instruction. Updated 3/23

B658 Law & Education: Legal Perspectives on Education (3) – TBA
This course prepares students to: 1) identify legal issues occurring in public PK-12 schools so that you can formulate, articulate, and defend alternative solutions; 2) describe and analyze key principles of school/district policy as well as federal and state law and apply them to real life scenarios; 3) increase awareness about the importance of legal literacy for administrators, educators, policymakers, and others; 4) access primary sources of law (i.e., federal and state statutes, regulations, and case law) needed to analyze and solve legal dilemmas and to stay abreast of evolving law; 5) collaborate with others to solve complex legal and ethical dilemmas; 6) communicate persuasively in oral and written form to advocate for themselves, colleagues, students, school, and district; and 7) analyze diversity, equity, inclusion, social justice, and ethical issues involving but not limited to: socio-economic status, race, ethnicity, national origin, language proficiency, disability, sexual orientation, gender identity, and sex. This cross-listed course is a School of Education course (EDUC-A608) which will be taught entirely online. Students are responsible for ascertaining applicable rules of relevant jurisdictions for bar exams/admission. Some jurisdictions limit the number of online hours. This course qualifies as one of the School of Education courses that is required for the J.D. Minor in Education Policy (see https://law.indiana.edu/academics/jd-degrees/joint-degrees/outside.html). Any law student may enroll in this course, but preference is given to Minor in Education Policy students. Therefore, students who are interested in enrolling or interested in declaring the minor must contact Dr. Janet Decker (deckerjr@indiana.edu) by the following dates: March 20 for summer semester and April 1 for fall semester enrollment permission. B658 Law & Education: Leadership in Special Education (3) – TBA
Special education is the most commonly litigated area in public schools today. Students will analyze legal, political, cultural, and leadership issues surrounding these disputes, as well as federal and state legislation and case law. Topics will include: student harassment based on disability; litigation surrounding discipline of students with disabilities; the evolution of the U.S. special education system; special education and school choice; alternative dispute resolution in special education; the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act’s due process procedures; eligibility of students with disabilities; school-family relationships in special education; and other special student populations (e.g., LGBT, gifted and talented, homeless students). This cross-listed course is a School of Education course (EDUC-A675) taught entirely online. Students are responsible for ascertaining applicable rules of relevant jurisdictions for bar exams/admission. Some jurisdictions limit the number of online hours. This course qualifies as one of the School of Education courses required for the JD Minor in Education Policy (see https://law.indiana.edu/academics/jd-degrees/joint-degrees/outside.html). Because there are limited spots available for law students, preference is given to law students who have declared the Minor in Education Policy. Therefore, students who are interested in enrolling or interested in declaring the minor must contact Dr. Janet Decker (deckerjr@indiana.edu) by the following dates: March 20 for summer semester and April 1 for fall semester enrollment permission.
